Full entry

Good afternoon,

Subject: Right-of-access request dated 17 July 2026 - overdue status and escalation

On 17 July 2026, I made a Subject Access Request through my Universal Credit journal and asked for that date to be recorded as the date of the request. On 30 July 2026, I asked for it to be routed to the appropriate DWP Right of Access or data-protection team.

No acknowledgements have been made. The journal does not show a written acknowledgement, reference number, request for identification or clarification, extension notice or substantive response.

This message is a follow-up and complaint about the handling of the existing request. It is not a new Subject Access Request and should not reset or replace the original request date or scope.

Please route this message to the responsible DWP Right of Access team or Data Protection Officer and confirm in writing:

the date on which DWP recorded receipt of my request;

the responsible team and reference number;

whether any identification or clarification is required from me;

whether DWP considers the response period to have been paused or extended, and, if so, the legal basis, relevant dates, reason, and date on which I was notified;

the current status of the request and the date by which the complete response will be provided; and if a response has already been issued, the date and method of delivery and how I can obtain another copy.

If DWP does not accept 17 July 2026 as the date of receipt, please explain what happened to the original journal request, why I was not promptly told that another route or further information was required, and how the request can now be completed without losing the original chronology.

Please record the response and routing outcome in my journal. This is a data-protection matter rather than a work-coach matter.

If a complete response cannot be provided promptly, please register this as a formal complaint about the handling of my right-of-access request and provide the DWP complaint reference, the route to the DWP Data Protection Officer, and the information needed to take the matter to the Information Commissioner's Office if it remains unresolved.

Kind regards,

Tom
